INDWELLING: Living in a Female Body

1:00-3:00, reception to follow

Friends Meeting House

15 Rutherford Place

East 15th between 3rd Ave / 2nd Ave – A Short Walk from Union Square

Yes...All you sisters, friends, colleagues, brothers ... anyone who cares about building community – Please come and be a part of our project now and join the revolution!!

Last March The WTCI convened an international summit - Endangered Species Preserving The Female Body. We launched the Endangered Bodies Campaign- partnering with like-minded body positive organizations in 5 different countries who are engaged in the the same fight to free women's/girls' bodies from commodification and objectification.

At this year's INDWELLING we are excited to honor

SPARK and WOMEN'S MEDIA CENTER

Jamia Wilson is a feminist media activist, organizer, and storyteller. Jamia is currently Vice President of Programs at the Women's Media Center where she works on amplifying women's voices and changing the conversation in the media. She trains women and girls so they are media-ready and media-savvy, exposes sexism in the media, and directs the WMC's social media strategy. Before joining the Women's Media Center team, Jamia worked for Young People For the American Way, the Planned Parenthood Action Fund and Planned Parenthood Federation of America where she managed their youth outreach program Vox: Voices for Planned Parenthood.

The SPARK Team WILL PERFORM FOR US!

AND YES, AGAIN, WE OFFER OUR SPEAK OUT: For the last 30 years, The WTCI has offered a Speakout, a time honored traditional forum for women to find their individual voice and share experiences, allowing the personal story of each woman to be heard, dignified, and transformed by our coming together.
